Thomas Clary, now of Oklahoma, and of whom we recently wrote, enlisted in the 24 Vermont regiment in the war of the rebellion, May 1, 1861, and was mustered out June 29, 1864. On the 21st of July, 1861, he was wounded. We are told now that his captain gave him credit of being one of the bravest and best of soldiers. He was a genial, well-liked Irish boy and had lived here in the families of the late Asa S. Simons and of Martin Simons and of John Lynde, before going to the war.

Although the weather on Monday, Decoration day, was threatening and even a bit rainy at times, there was a good gathering in the afternoon at the grange hall to listen to the exercises there; and the number who remained through the all-day vocal and instrumental music, the enjoyable children's exercises, and the address by E. A. Nutt of Montpelier all proved very attractive. Altogether, we believe, it will be considered that Monday's exercises have not been surpassed by those of the kind in a long while.

Memorial Sunday was a beautiful day and there was a good attendance at the union exercises at the Congregational church. The church was decorated with the national flowers and flags and Rev. D. H. Strong had an excellent sermon, with the text the last clause of Judges 7:18, "The sword of the Lord and of Gideon." The music by the union chorus was fine. The diminishing number of veterans present and the marks that the years are leaving on their bodies carry great sadness; but though the outer men are perishing, there is a true sense in which their lives are being renewed ever, in the life of the country they, with their fellows, fought and suffered to save.

Twenty Years Ahead!

Crawford Ranges

Other ranges have not advanced in any material way in twenty years. They have the same cook-confusing, food-spoiling way of regulating by two dampers.

Crawfords have but One Damper (patented); one motion controls fire and oven absolutely; slide the knob to "kindle," "bake" or "check"—the range does the rest. No damper mistakes.

Ordinary ranges have the old clumsy ash pan; troublesome, untidy.

Crawfords have an Ash Hod (patented) into which all the ashes fall, far below the fire—making their disposal easy and cleanly. The Coal Hod is beside it.

Crawford Ovens have cup-joint flues that heat every part uniformly.

Crawfords have Patented Grates—most durable, least trouble.

Gas Ovens and Broilers at end or above range furnished if desired.

Ask the Crawford agent to show you and write to us for circulars.
